ROAD, COLONIAL BEACH, WESTMORELAND VA USA 22443 (POTOMAC RIVER BEACH) (Region: NER, State/Zone: VA, Area: GEWA) On March 15 from approximately 1300 to 1430 hours, I patrolled the Potomac River beach from the beach access parking area to the "sand spit" near the Popes Creek inlet. Normally, one cannot access most of this stretch of beach due to high water levels. Because of very low tide, I was able to access the area. While on patrol, I observed a hole that someone dug into the clay wall of the cliffs about a half mile south of the beach access area. A large object appearing to be a rock or fossilized object was protruding from the hole. It appeared as if someone were trying to excavate the object. Faded tool marks were still visible on the hole. I photographed the damaged area to the cliff.

It appears that the grill could not be removed from its hole because of the weight of the concrete footing. / I examined the grill and saw what appear to be chain and or strap marks on the grill post near the base. / There was no discernible tread pattern in the tire tracks. / I talked with a park visitor who was in the area and he stated that he was at the picnic area on Thursday 03/14 and the grill was in place at that time. /

FORA, Site: BI) On May 6, 2013, I received a report that a door to an unoccupied residence kicked in at Fort Raleigh National Historic Site. I found the rear door to the Prince House, 216 Dare Avenue open. The doorknob was locked and there was a chain in place. The chain was still attached to the door and the other end was attached the molding that was ripped from the wall. The storm door was pulled from the wall and was lying inside the residence. There did not appear to be anything else damaged or missing inside the building. The front door to the building was locked and secured. There is one window that is broken from the previous winter. The building has been vacant for several years and is scheduled to be removed.

The branch had also squished a squeegee belonging to the occupants staying on the site. A motorhome on the site had a series of scratches on its front passenger door, with a total length of approximately 12 inches. The occupants of the site were not present. I photographed the area; including the damages to the motorhome and squeegee. I left a Freedom of Information Form Closed - Incident only - On May 9, 2013 at approximately 1415 hours, I observed red ink, from a pen, that covered a Hophornbeam Tree at Victory Woods inside Saratoga NHP. With the pen, the suspects wrote down a couple of names and drew a couple of hearts before breaking the pen. The names "Stevie and Savanna" were inscribed on different parts of the tree as well as other words that I could not make out. Debris from the pen were found within 10 feet from the tree. No suspects or visitors were on scene during the time of the discovery. This tree is located approximately 6 feet away from a bench that is centrally located on the boardwalk inside of Victory Woods. I documented the damage and continued patrol of the area at approximately 1425 hours.
